Case study:

On one occasion an expert in the law stood up to test Jesus. “Teacher,” he asked, “what must I do to inherit eternal life”? “What is written in the Law?” he replied. “How do you read it?” He answered, “‘Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind’; and, ‘Love your neighbor as yourself.’” “You have answered correctly,” Jesus replied. “Do this and you will live?” But he wanted to justify himself, so he asked Jesus, “And who is my neighbor?” A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, when he was attacked by robbers. They stripped him of his clothes, beat him and went away, leaving him half dead. A priest happened to be going down the same road, and when he saw the man, he passed by on the other side. So too, a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side. But a Samaritan, as he traveled, came where the man was; and when he saw him, he took pity on him. He went to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring on oil and wine. Then he put the man on his own donkey, brought him to an inn and took care of him. The next day he took out two denarii and gave them to the innkeeper. ‘Look after him,’ he said, ‘and when I return, I will reimburse you for any extra expense you may have. “Which of these three do you think was a neighbor to the man who fell into the hands of robbers?” The expert in the law replied, “The one who had mercy on him.” Jesus told him, “Go and do likewise.”

Q.1 Discuss the question of identity and role of counseling viz a viz clinical psychology.

Q.2 A capable counselor must possess a number of personal qualities and develop the proper attitudes to make a client feel at ease and to build rapport so that a client can self-disclose. What are these personal qualities?

Q.3 What is the benefit of using open ended questions over closed ended questions in the counseling process? Convert the following questions into open ended questions:
   a) Do you like your mother?
   b) Do you have a best friend?
   c) Is your apartment new?
   d) Why are you telling me that?
   e) “What is the point of this story?”
   f) “Aren’t you listening to me?”
   g) “Is that supposed to make sense?”
   h) “Can’t you understand this simple idea?”

Q.4 As a counselor how would you deal with silence in a relationship? What role do you attribute to silence?

Q.5 “I just broke up with my boyfriend Diago and I feel pretty awful. He wanted to get married and have kids, but I didn’t. I still want to be friends but he won’t have anything to do with me. My friends think I made the wrong decision.”
Write four statements that a counsellor could make in response to this client that focus on the following:
   a) The client’s feeling
   b) The client’s thoughts and feelings
   c) The problem
   d) Other people

Q.6 As a counsellor how would you deal with a client with suicide ideation?

PART-A

Q.1 You have been counseling Yvonne for the last three months and in that time she has made considerable progress in regard to the issues she initially presented with. You introduce the idea that counseling may not be required for too much longer. As Yvonne hears what you are saying she begins to react in anger saying that it was “typical”, that you are “just like everyone else” and “can’t handle getting close to her”. She adds, “Just when things are going so well you decide to abandon me too”. Yvonne has been clearly emotionally affected by your suggestion to end the counseling relationship.

Explain how you would manage this situation. 10

Q.2 Read through the following scenario and answer the question that follows:

Stewart attended counseling as he was feeling very overwhelmed in a new position in his company. Whilst he had initially fought to obtain the position and had been looking forward to the extra responsibility and duties, he was finding that since taking on the position four months ago, he was not coping. He was feeling tired all the time, pessimistic and unmotivated about what he could achieve, wasn’t eating or sleeping well and was experiencing rapid mood changes. After conducting a thorough assessment of Stewart, the counselor develops a comprehensive stress management program. This plan incorporates stress management techniques and daily exercise. Together, Stewart and the counselor discuss how the plan could be integrated into Stewart’s life. Stewart left the counseling session eager to implement the new plan. Stewart, however did not implement these techniques and eventually was fired from his job because of his continuing inability to cope.

Did the counselor breach their duty of care in this scenario? Explain your answer. 10

Q.3 How does change work? And how does change happen? You can use any one theoretical approach to explain the change process in counseling. 10

Q.4 Compare the directive vs non directive approaches to counseling. 10

PART-B

Case study:

Tom’s father (Des) died from a heart attack five months ago. Tom is 25 years old and has been estranged from his father for over five years. His father’s death has had an unexpected impact on Tom, who finds himself exhibiting very intimidating and aggressive behavior toward his colleagues and friends. Tom had always been very sensitive and introverted so this is significantly out of character for him. He has assumed that this behaviour is in some way connected to his father’s death but is not sure how to stop it. Tom has not shed a tear over his father’s death and is mostly concerned for his mother and her grief. Tom’s father was a very intimidating man who ruled the house through a fear campaign. Despite this, Tom’s mother stayed by his side till the end. Although Tom has not spoken with his father for over five years he has had moderate contact with his mother. Tom is by nature an emotionally withdrawn man, who has difficulty expressing his emotions – a consequence he has surmised from a childhood of not letting his father see that he’s hurt him or give him the satisfaction of seeing him cry.

Read the case study carefully given above and answers the following questions:

a) What is the theoretical basis for the presenting concerns, according to the theoretical underpinning of the underpinning you are focusing on? 5

b) Determine appropriate techniques for addressing the presenting concerns (techniques must align with the underpinning theory of the approach you are focusing on). 5

c) Outline the skills and techniques you would adopt in the counseling sessions (in alignment with the approach you have selected). 5

d) Address each of the following in relation to the approach you are focusing on:

i) How would you start the session?

ii) How would you identify the concerns of the client?

iii) What is your role as the counselor?

iv) How is the session structured?

v) Is the client required to do any particular tasks after the session has ended?

vi) What signs would indicate improvement for the client? 5

Q.1 Abnormality is a square triangle or a round square. Discuss the contradictions of psychopathology.

Q.2 What is more important having the diagnosis, or being free of it? Discuss the stickiness of diagnosis in the light of the above statement.

Q.3 With reference to a specific anxiety disorder, critically evaluate two contrasting etiological models.

Q.4 Raju, 26 year old, was laughing when he was brought to the ward by the nurse – looked like he was having a good time. Before the nurse could introduce him to the staff, he said, cricket, I love cricket! I have never played cricket in my life but that is what I am going to do while I am here. I am going to become the world’s best cricket player! He then went on to talk about his mother and then suddenly described what he had for dinner the previous night. Few days back, Raju had spent all his money and that of his elderly parents and bought an expensive professional camera. Without any formal training in photography, he thought he could set up the best studio in the city and make lot of money.

Does anything about Raju seem strange? What is this behavior called?

Case study:

Zev is a 45 year old man seeking therapy from Dr. Miller, a clinical psychologist. Zev is an Orthodox Jew. For many years, Zev has felt compelled to perform very specific, stereotyped rituals dozens of times each day. For example, any time Zev eats, he must tap his fork on the side of his plate five times before he takes a bite. As another example, when he gets undressed each evening, Zev must place his shoes exactly one inch apart other and precisely parallel to the wall near his bed. Zev feels that by doing such behaviors, he is preventing terrible things from happening. If he prevented from doing these behaviors, he experiences extremely high levels of anxiety. In recent months, Zev has developed more of these ritualistic, anxiety-driven behaviors, and his behaviors have become more severe as well. His family has tried to be patient, but on numerous occasions his behaviors have gotten in the way of their lives, such as the time that he felt compelled to insert the key into the lock of their home “just right”, which required dozens of attempts and a delay of about 10 minutes while his family waited in the rain.

Q.7 Read the case study carefully given above and answers the following questions:

a) What is Zev’s diagnosis?

b) Differentiate between obsessive compulsive disorders and psychotic disorders.
PART-A

Q.1 A 30-year-old man comes to see you in the general practitioner surgery. He is embarrassed and explains that he was married last year and is having problems with his sex life. In particular he mentions that since he was married he has had problems maintaining an erection when he is with his wife. He says that when he has been able to get an erection he often has a premature ejaculation. His wife has not been able to achieve orgasm. She has been very understanding and says that she does not mind, but he is concerned that there is something very wrong with him. He says that their relationship is good and he is very much in love with his wife. He has not told her that he is seeking advice. On further questioning he indicates that before he married he was a virgin, but that he did masturbate regularly and had sustained erections. He still occasionally masturbates in private and can sustain an erection for at least 5 minutes. His erections are normal and not painful. Brief systemic enquiry is normal. He has no urological or cardiovascular symptoms. He is an amateur football player who plays regularly and has not had any difficulties recently with fitness. He drinks socially at weekends only and is a non-smoker. He can still enjoy himself with his friends and his wife and denies any low mood. His work as owner of a small plumbing firm is going well.

He is clearly anxious and embarrassed. When you put him at his ease by explaining that the consultation is confidential and that this is a common problem with one in ten men experiencing it at some time, he becomes more relaxed. There is no evidence of any serious mental illness.

He has a pulse of 88/min and a blood pressure of 125/75 mmHg. His heart sounds are normal. He is fit and appears healthy. His body mass index is 22. There are no penile, testicular or scrotal abnormalities and he has normal muscle and hair distribution. Neurological examination is also normal. Urine test is normal.

Answer the following:
What possible differential diagnosis goes through your mind and what is the way forward with this patient?

Q.2 The mother of an 8-year-old boy presents with concerns that her son keeps saying he wants to be a girl. She states that he has always preferred to participate in “feminine” activities such as playing with dolls, interested in dressing up and playing with make-up. He has been doing well academically but has started having more problems with peers because they tease him about his liking for activities they see as “sissy”. He much prefers playing with girls but sometimes bothers them because he insists he is one of them. He has quite a few effeminate mannerisms and he is often seen trying to copy female gaits and swinging his hips. The family had noticed aspects of these behaviours when he was younger but thought he would grow out of it.
His parents argue about whether anything needs to be done or not but his behaviour is increasingly impacting on many areas of his life. His father is also worried that they have caused him to become gay and feels that he has failed as a father. At times he accuses his wife of having babied him and caused the problem. They have two other children, a boy aged 11 and a girl aged 13. The boy is embarrassed by his brother and they rarely play together. His sister finds him interested in her clothes and make-up. She is mainly tolerant but can be irritated if he is too intrusive. She worries about the teasing and bullying her younger brother is subjected to.

Answer the following:
What is the likely diagnosis and how will you manage the situation?

Q.3
A 54-year-old man presents with abdominal pain for several days. The pain is a constant dull ache which is central and radiates to the right. He has had some associated vomiting but the vomit is usually bile as he has not been eating well. He has on a few occasions vomited some blood but says that this was after particularly heavy consumption of alcohol. He is not aware how many units he drinks in a week but reluctantly admits he drinks every day. His breakfast often consists of a drink as he feels very shaky otherwise. Once he has had a drink he feels better able to manage the day ahead. He lives alone in a bed sit and eats poorly. He says he was sacked for taking time off work for physical complaints. He has been separated from his wife for six months and no longer has regular contact with his children who he says have turned against him. The marriage had been difficult for some years because he was unable to hold down a regular job. He held a middle manager’s post until he turned 50. Since then he has had a series of short-term junior posts. He believes that this is as a result of changes in local government and not related to his drinking.

Physical examination
He has a ruddy complexion and red palms. He has a body mass index of 32.

Mental state examination
He smells of alcohol. He is reasonably well-dressed. He looks unwell and is clearly uncomfortable. He has good eye contact. His speech is normal. He admits he has felt low as his life has deteriorated over the last few months but says he is not "depressed". He can still enjoy himself and is reactive at interview. He does not have any self-harm ideation. He has little hope for the future. There is no evidence of psychosis. He is orientated in time, place and person. His short-term memory is poor but there are no long-term memory problems.

Answer the following:
What is the likely diagnosis and what is the way forward?

Q.4
A 19-year-old young man is brought to the general practitioner surgery by his sister with complaints of nausea, vomiting, body ache, fever, shivering and poor sleep over the past 2 days. He complains of having the “flu” but his sister is worried that his symptoms may be related to drug use. He normally lives with his parents but is visiting her for the weekend. She says that he began smoking at the age of 14 and was using cannabis at age 16. He used to sniff glue aged 17 and was dabbling with opiates. Initially, he started smoking but then graduated to intravenous injections. He has been arrested twice for possession of drugs and given cautions. His sister is extremely concerned about him. He denies using drugs in the presence of his sister. He says that he has experienced withdrawal having been without opiates for 48 hours when he could not find a dealer locally. Over the past few years the cost of his habit with heroin has increased from £20a week to £300 per week. He admits that the drug clinic was not successful and that he now injects heroin twice a day. He enjoys the rush that he gets, but equally knows that he has needed to use more of the drug to achieve the same effect. He had enrolled in a youth training scheme but dropped out. He now has a rather fixed routine whereby he spends the day at home watching DVDs going out later in the day with his friends for “a fix”. He acknowledges that he ought to be “getting out there” trying to get a job but said he did not have the confidence to do so as he had made several unsuccessful attempts at quitting. He does not abuse alcohol though he smokes 20 cigarettes a day. He says that he borrows money to fund his drug habit.

Mental state examination
He appears as a sullen, lanky young man, reluctant to talk. He speaks slowly but coherently and there is no evidence of any psychotic symptoms. He appears tired and is yawning repeatedly. His mood appears anxious and there is distinct psychomotor agitation. He has some insight into his substance misuse but presently begs to be prescribed some codeine or morphine for instant relief.

Physical examination
He has injection track marks in his veins. His blood pressure is 148/98 mmHg and pulse is 94/min, regular. His pupils appear dilated. He complains of muscle tenderness but there is no significant finding on systemic examination.

Answer the following:
What is the differential diagnosis and what is the way forward?

Q.5 A 7-year-old boy appears in the accident and emergency department having banged his head after falling from a garage roof. He vomited once after this but has not become unconscious or had any loss of power or sensation. He has had no other neurological problems on systematic enquiry. His parents are with him. They say that he has always been very active and ask if he can be seen by someone who might check him out. He has a normal night’s sleep, but is very active when awake. He rarely stays on task and does not finish things that he starts. He has always flitted from toy to toy when playing. His teachers report to the parents that he is a fidget, up and down out of his chair and that he has very poor concentration. He calls answers out despite being reminded not to and has great difficulty waiting in a queue. He is easily distracted by things outside the window or in other parts of the classroom. This is much the same at home. If he takes anything to school he often loses it and has had to have three new coats in the last year because previous ones have gone missing. Even when watching favored television programmes he will be up and down out of the chair, and in and out of the room.

Answer the following:
What is the likely diagnosis and how will you manage the situation?

PART-B

Q.6 The mother of a 19-year-old man comes to see you in general practice hoping to understand her son’s behaviour. She discusses her son’s over activity and behaviour problems. When he was at school these problems were often discussed at parent evenings. He found it difficult to concentrate during lessons. She also describes that her son can be unpredictable. A male friend of her husband suggested that he looked “different” and she found this distressing as she had never thought this before. He had mild learning difficulties at school and received extra help in the classroom. A teaching assistant had wondered if he had “autistic traits” but an educational psychologist dismissed this at a school review meeting saying he could be imaginative and affectionate. She describes how he always struggled at school, not just with his learning but with his friendships. She says that other children avoided him perhaps because he had some unusual behaviour. These included laughing out loud, repeating phrases and some repetitive behaviour. He used to be very preoccupied with the film “Toy Story” and talked endlessly about Woody and Buzz Light-year who are characters in the film. When talking, he often repeated sentences, sometimes half a sentence or even a syllable at the end of a word.

He left school at 16 and went to work with his father on the farm. His father gives him straightforward tasks “because of his learning difficulties”. These include delivering food to pigs and cows and hens every day. He is reliable with these tasks and happy, but his father recently had a mild heart attack and his mother is worried about whether he could hold down a job without their support.

Mental state examination
He has poor eye contact but will look at you and readily smiles at you. He seems comfortable in your room. He is quite active, and picks things up and puts them down without much awareness that this might not be acceptable. He doesn’t speak much but when he does he asks you if you like Doctor Who (a popular TV show) and seems pleased when you say you do. There is no evidence of any psychotic phenomena, anxiety or depression.

What is the differential diagnosis and how will you manage this case?
